

Creative Technologist.

The Agency

2006 was an important, transformational year for Republic. We produced some of the most awarded and innovative creative work around for some of the best clients. We pitched for 16 accounts and won 15, including Nokia, Lynx, Baileys, Dove and PlayStation. Campaign awarded us "Digital Agency of the Year" and voted our CEO "Digital Achiever of the Year". We hired more great talent. 80 of us went sailing together. 5 people took sabbaticals. 4 people got married. We all stepped up.

The Job

Reporting to the Head of Creative Technology you will join a team of six. Our creative technologists are at the heart of the creative process so you'll need to understand how to produce the best work through working closely with creatives. Rather than developing just standalone advertising or virals, we have successfully carved out a position as an agency that develops integrated strategies aimed at solving business problems for big brands. According to Campaign, "A willingness to take creative risks and develop integrated strategies for big business brands pushed Agency Republic ahead of its closest rivals in 2006". Some of our award winning work includes:

Whilst we're really proud of our work today we've still got a long way to go and with so much of our work being heavily flash based, we need more talent on board to make it happen in 2007.

Your Experience

You'll need:

- At least 3 years of commercial flash development (Flash 8) for blue chip clients
- Proven experience of Object Oriented Programming techniques
- Thorough knowledge of the latest ActionScript techniques and design patterns
- Experience with open source technologies such as Eclipse
- A good appreciation of usability and interaction design

Your Package

Salary dependent on experience

25 days holiday plus Xmas/New Year break

We can also offer you a great environment to work with passionate people in a dynamic and highly successful agency. There's good training, continual mentoring and a structured career development programme.
